Editorial International Day Of Peace Observance

By Hattie Ingram

Many notable events were observed recently to mark the celebration of International Day of Peace. Peace Day services and activities filled with prayers, songs, and resolutions were held around the world. This most important event was first established by the United Nations in 1981. Winston-Salem has celebrated it since 2003.

Major world leaders from the United States, Russia, China, Iran and other countries met at the United Nations just this week to analyze complex issues, seek peaceful resolutions and to progress from dissonance to consonance.

Closer to home, elementary and high school students looked for ways to find peace in their schools and how to set an example for peacefulness in their communities. They wanted to discourage bullying and gang fights. "We are the World" and "A Sense of Peace" were themes for poetry and art exhibits focusing on personal and political peace.

Spiritual leaders spoke of living together as brothers and sisters, regardless of background, age and heritage. They spoke of letting love be the guiding principle in our lives.

As we look around today, we find that there is little personal, domestic, social, economical or political peace anywhere. Jesus said, Bless are the peacemakers: for they shall be called the children of God (Matthew 5:9). As Christians, we must try for peace. We must work for peace, because the Lord loves peace. When a man's way pleases the Lord, He maketh even his enemies to be at peace with him. Let's make every day an International Day of Peace.

Sunday School Views Discipleship: The Epic Adventure

The Sunday School lessons for the month of October are about Jesus as the ultimate Hero who invites His followers to a journey with Him that is full of challenge, intrigue, power and victory. Jesus' earthly experience is our model. It was a constant challenge. We are not accustomed to using Hero as a title for Jesus. We tend to think of heroes in the secular terms and we fail to see the heroic dimension about Christ. We fail to recognize the heroic in Christian living. In this study we will look at the heroic qualities in Jesus' life and apply them to our own life.

Preparing for the Future

By Tammicia Kelly

As some of you may know, I am now a senior this year at Atkins High School. I am planning on going to college. My focus has been choosing a school that is right for me, preparing for the SAT, getting good grades, and other things to make sure that I excel as a great student. In the midst of doing all of these things, I've found a positive sport to keep me physically healthy, tennis.

At first I was a little hesitant about playing the game. I didn't know anything about tennis. I had never even watched it on TV. Despite all of that, I signed up ready to face a new obstacle. The first day of practice I quickly learned that I wasn't the only one who didn't know how to play. All of us got discouraged at one point, but my coach encouraged us to press on. After numerous practices, I got better and stronger. I was ready for my first real tennis match. My team and I prayed for guidance and strength. By the end of my singles match, I had won (1) game out of eight which wasn't bad downsizing considering that I was a beginner. In my double match, my partner and I won five out of eight which I thought was great. I'm glad that I have found something positive to do. I wouldn't be the person that I have grown to be. Last, but not least, I want to acknowledge God because it is Him that keeps me pressing on from day to day.

Seniors Learn About Strokes

By Rev. Dianne Horton

On Saturday, September 12, 2009, the seniors of New Bethel gathered in the Drayton Multipurpose Room for a lunch and learn event. The menu consisted of a variety of casseroles. The seniors really demonstrated their creative culinary skills in the tasty casseroles they prepared and shared. There was also an assortment of drinks and desserts. Trinia Hall, RN, MSN was the guest speaker. The topic was Strokes.

Ms. Hall is a nurse at Wake Forest University Baptist Medical Center. She has worked in the field of nursing for seventeen years. She currently works in the Neuroscience Department where she serves as an outreach coordinator. Ms. Hall's presentation was very informative. She discussed the causes, as well as, the signs and symptoms, of a stroke. She also discussed preventative measures we should all take in order to avoid becoming a stroke victim.

Sister Romaine Eaton opened the program by welcoming everyone to the luncheon. Sister Rosa Rice read the scripture. Sister Elinor Walker introduced the speaker. Rev. Dianne Horton offered prayer and blessed the meal. She also made the closing remarks. Deacon Thomas Atkins led the seniors in reciting the mizpah as we were dismissed.

Mrs. Mary Shuler has operated a daycare from her home on Stokes Avenue for 29 years. At 78 she has a legacy of caring for kids. She was featured in The Chronicle because she continues a legacy of caring for children.

In her kitchen, she has a wall of photos of children who have passed through her doors. She would bring the children with her to revivals and night programs at New Bethel. We featured her daycare several years ago when she garnered a 4-star rating in the state's daycare rating system. She definitely has a passion for taking care of children.

Mrs. Shuler's deeds didn't go unnoticed. State Representative Larry Womble of the 71st District where Mrs. Shuler is a resident sent her a congratulatory letter when he read of her great service in The Chronicle. New Bethel applauds Mrs. Shuler for her longevity and great service in rendering daycare services for children in the community.
